YSI Australia Opens New Office in Queensland

(Brisbane, Australia) YSI Inc. announces the opening of its new offices in Queensland, Australia. The new office and expanded staff will provide better and broader services to our customers and selling partners in this fast growing region.

"The opening of the new facility shows YSI's continued commitment to providing high level customer support worldwide for our outdoor monitoring product line" said Gayle Rominger, Executive Vice President of YSI Inc. "Australia and New Zealand both face critical environmental issues and it is our goal to help our distribution partners and customers collect the best water quality and flow data as possible"

SonTek/YSI customers can expect to receive the same one-on-one service they are accustomed to, with faster turn-around time and access to additional field expertise with the three Application Specialists now on staff.

"This is an exciting new horizon for all of us here at YSI Australia" said Arran Corbett, Regional Manager for YSI Australia "and this is just the first step in expanding our outreach in locations convenient for our customers and to build solid relationships with important agencies, customers, and selling partners that impact the management of water resources" concluded Corbett.

The Queensland service center offers technical support, rental, field service, training and equipment repair for YSI Water and SonTek instruments and systems. Instrument sales will continue to be handled through our network of selling partners. YSI Life Sciences products will continue to be sold and serviced through John Morris Scientific.

YSI Australia, established in 2008, is a wholly owned subsidiary of YSI Inc.
